Songr is a program that lets you search for, find and download, or stream music from the internet without using P2P sharing programs. P2P sharing programs gained popularity in the early 2000s as more people began having access to the internet at home. While these programs helped you find thousands of movies, television shows, and songs, the programs also required that you shared your own content with others. You can also use other apps to transfer music files to your phone Songr also has a feature that lets you search the web for videos too. One option lets the app automatically play the song as soon as the download completes, but you can also ask the program to save a copy of that file on your computer. It also lets you select the quality of the songs you want to find You actually have two options when it comes to the songs you find.
